

MONASH LAW PRATO PROGRAM 2019

Study Law in Prato, Italy

Immerse yourself in the delights of Tuscany whilst studying law in an 18th century palace, Palazzo Vaj, at Monash University's Prato Centre.

The Monash Law Faculty offers a program of international and comparative law subjects taught by distinguished academics and professionals from Australia and worldwide. Offered in the European spring each year, all units are taught intensively and in English.

Participants in the Prato Law Program will have the opportunity to meet fellow students from all over the world, enjoy the beautiful Tuscan countryside and make use of travel opportunities.

Students can also attend guest lectures organised by Monash Law whilst at the Centre featuring distinguished Italian and visiting legal professionals as speakers.

If you're keen to participate please contact your International Co-ordinator to find out how to enrol.
